THE CONFEDERATE BONDHOLDERS.

An Atlantic cable telegram informs us that the rebel bondholders are about to bring their claims to the notice of the British Government, as a set-off to the Alabama claims.

Either the said bondholders are disposed to be facetious, or some way has been perpetrated. As we can hardly imagine that these speculating gentlemen are in a mood for joking about their investments in Confederate bonds, we incline to the opinion that the telegram is a concoction. Possibly the report has been set off by a bondholder who, sold badly himself, would like in his turn to sell a few greenbacks. — N. Y. Tribune.

We do not know, of course, any better than the New York Tribune, precisely what efforts the foreign holders of the Confederate bonds may make to endeavor to insure their ultimate payment. We have hitherto thought it fair to presume that they would be likely to avail themselves of every opportunity which might occur, and of every pretext which the circumstances might afford, to induce the British Government to urge their payment, because the English people always do such things; and also because at the last reported meeting of these bondholders at the London Tavern, the intention to do so, and the reasons therefor, were announced and stated.

And the reasons assigned were, in substance, that leading members of the American Congress, and other distinguished American citizens, contended that by the secession of the Southern States and the war they in legal effect withdrew from the Union and set up a de facto government of their own; that if, as is contended by THADDEUS STEVENS, GEORGE BISHOP and others, they did get out of the Union, they were invested with the legal right to set up a de facto government; that by the laws of nations such de facto government possessed the power during its existence to contract debts which the United States, as the conquering power, were obliged to pay; that even though the States themselves might repudiate the liability, all Christendom would be interested in having Great Britain enforce this well-settled principle of international law; and that they ought not, therefore, to regard the investment as lost. It was replied at the same meeting that Secretary SEWARD, in his diplomatic correspondence, had uniformly repelled the idea of a dissolved Union, and that as he was the organ of the Executive Department it was not at all likely, so long as he occupied the position of premier, that the claim of the bondholders would be admitted.

Whether or not this telegram is a "concoction," we do not, of course, know; but from what has occurred heretofore, and the persistence of THAD. STEVENS and others in their purpose of shutting out Southern Senators and Representatives from Congress, we shall not be at all surprised to hear that the British Government sets up those bonds as an offset to individual claims on our part. It may be that so profound a statesman as LORD DREYER will disdain to urge so flimsy a doctrine in respect to the dissolution of the Union as that which is maintained by THAD. STEVENS. We hope he will. But that he will be urged to do so, even by radicals this side of the water who are itching to buy up those bonds at nominal sums and realize their faces, we entertain no considerable doubt.

We know that it is flippantly said that it would be absurd to urge the United States "to pay for heating the poker." But Governments have been required to do such things very frequently; and if the doctrine urged by THAD. STEVENS and GEORGE BISHOP shall prevail, we do not perceive how, under the laws of nations, our Government can escape the obligation to do so. Both of them contend that our position toward the unrepresented States is the same as it would be toward Mexico if we had conquered that country by our arms. Would either of those gentlemen deny that, if we had conquered Mexico, we took her fiscal liabilities with her assets? If they did, they would do so in derogation of the laws of nations as the same are laid down in all the books.

So long as our Foreign Office is in its present able hands, we shall have no fears of our Government being saddled into the rebel debt. That point will be, as it has been, guarded by Mr. SEWARD at every point. But just so long as any credence shall be given in Europe to the insane notion that this Union was dissolved by the war, will hopes be cherished that at some time or another and in some manner the rebel debt will be assumed and paid by the Government of the United States. Mark the prediction.

PAYMASTER MOORE.

We congratulate Volunteer Brevet Col. W. G. MOORE that he has been promoted to a "regular" Major. No man deserved it more. He has not only been the hardest worked man, but one of the most devoted in the most difficult branch of the service. He entered the army early in the war to employ the sword, but the Secretary of War soon learned that in Moore's right hand

"The pen is mightier than the sword."

From the War Office Capt. MOORE was detailed to the Executive Mansion, where for nearly two years he has been the most arduous and constant assistant to THE PRESIDENT as special Confidential Secretary. About one year ago he was breveted Major of Volunteers. The late promotion is a genuine permanent appointment; eminently due Col. MOORE for actual service rendered, and for the future and the Government a better appointment could not be made. We like to see the "knights of the quill" rewarded.

We learn that the promotion will not necessarily detach the Colonel from the immediate service of THE PRESIDENT for some time to come.

THE PRESIDENT.

THE PRESIDENT was attacked with a chill during his return from Baltimore yesterday afternoon, and received no visitors last evening—attending only to his letters which had accumulated in his absence during the day.

COPPERHEADS AFTER OFFICE.

MOSES BATES, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee of Massachusetts, has been in town two or three days, asking Mr. Secretary McMillen to remove a conservative Republican or assessor in Massachusetts and appoint his (BATES) former clerk, a Mr. MARON. The course adopted by BATES, in his attempt to remove the present incumbent, has been the same as that pursued by PRINCE, who obtained the Collectorship of Barnstable. He assails the occupant of the office as a bitter radical, and declares Mr. MARON to be a War Democrat and earnest supporter of the Administration. This is a falsehood. The present incumbent is a conservative Republican. Mr. MARON, who wants the office, is a copperhead, who wants MARON to have the office, is a copperhead; went to the Gulf during the war and advertised himself as a "cotton factor," made money, returned to Massachusetts, was assessed by the present assessor, refused to pay the tax, a lawsuit resulted, and still remains unsettled in court. Of course BATES wants the assessor removed and his court clerk appointed, so that he can be the easier have his lawsuit settled. BATES is the VALLANDIGHAM of Massachusetts, and ought not to be tolerated by any loyal official of this Government, especially at the expense of conservative Republicans. The facts about the lawsuit are on file in the Treasury Department, and some day when we are not crowded we will print them, if it is necessary.

Military and Police Precautions in Ireland.

The Freeman's Journal says: If we may judge by certain precautions now being taken by the military and police authorities, it would seem that they do not totally disregard the assertion of the famous Head Centre that there will be fighting in Ireland this year. The ordnance officers are busily putting Beggar's Bush Barracks in a state of defence. The walls surrounding it are being strengthened in many places, and flanking projections, with numerous loopholes commanding the various points from which an attack might be made, are being constructed. Similar preparations for defence are in progress in several military stations throughout the province, there being a large number of men now engaged strengthening the old fortifications of Athlone Castle. With respect to the preparations on the part of the Metropolitan police, they principally consist in a diligent training of its various members in the use of the revolver, all those not on duty being drilled every day to the exercise of it and the cutlass, which they are to carry during the winter as in the past.

The country constabulary have also got orders to perfect their drill, and at the same time to redouble their exertions to trace out and apprehend all strangers and suspicious characters whose movements are doubtful. From these facts it would appear that the name of JAMES STEVENS is still sufficiently powerful to create alarm and disturbance in the minds of the Government authorities.

Dexter, the Champion Trotter.

Yesterday afternoon some fine trotting sport was witnessed at the National Park. Dexter won the race easily in 2:30, 2:21 1/2, 2:27 1/2. Next Saturday Dexter trots under the saddle with a view to making his fastest time.

This December number of the Atlantic Monthly closes volume XVIII, and covers the following papers by the writers named: John Pierpont, by JOHN NEIL; My Garden, by R. W. MARRIAGE IN HIGH LIFE.—At the British Embassy in Paris, yesterday, in presence of the Earl and Countess GOWLEY, the Earl and Countess of CLARENDON, Lord and Lady ROYSTON, and other persons of distinction, was celebrated the marriage of FALCONER ATLEE, Esq., Her Britannic Majesty's Consul at Paris, and Private Secretary to His Excellency, with Miss Mary MacCall, the second daughter of Col. MacCall, of the Chateau de Chantilly.—Galignani's Messenger, Sept. 28, 1896.

A. A. GUTTMAN, Esq., has resigned his place in the State Department in order to engage in business on his own account in the city of Pittsburgh, Pa. Mr. GUTTMAN has for several years acted as Confidential Secretary to Secretary SEWARD, and he carries with him the most flattering testimonials from the Secretary and F. W. SEWARD, Assistant Secretary of State. The kind wishes of many friends will also follow him to his new field of enterprise.

LETTER, the artist, is in town, engaged in the specialty of collecting the necessary material for a family portrait of the late Miss FANNIE SEWARD, at the solicitation of her father. We are glad that a gentleman so eminent in his profession as Mr. LETTER is engaged upon a work of so much delicacy and interest. He is worthy and equal to the very high compliment thus paid him by Mr. SEWARD.

SALE OF THE YACHT YOUNG AMERICA.—The well known fast sailing yacht Young America has been purchased by Messrs. C. D. Boggs & Co., of Boston, for a gentleman in Savannah, Ga., to be converted into a pilot boat. She sailed from this port on Monday afternoon last. She was a great favorite with pleasure parties, and it will be hard to supply her place. She will be missed next summer.

HARPER'S MONTHLY.—We have received from Messrs. PHILIP & SOLOMONSON, and from HEDDON TAYLOR's bookstores, copies of Harper's Magazine for December. The list of articles, poems, and illustrations is a rich one, even for the Harper's New Monthly.

NAVY DEPARTMENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20, 1896.

All persons who have served as volunteer officers in the United States Navy for the term of two years, and who desire to be examined for admission to the regular Navy, as provided in the act of Congress approved July 25, 1868, will at once make application, addressed to Commodore S. P. LEE, Hartford, Conn., who will notify them when to appear. Those who do not make application prior to the 1st of January next, or who do not present themselves when notified, will be considered as having waived their claim for examination. Candidates will take with them, when summoned, their official papers showing their naval record.

FEAR dehumanizes a human heart, and makes it tremble into dust until cooled around by death. Many a man has been frightened to spiritual death by some crowning folly—mortal—been shrouded and tumbled in the hollow conservatism of his sect or party, and nothing but the voice of God can ever give such a one a resurrection.—Cris. We would not for the world intimate that the special correspondent in Washington is given to lying, but they were all lying on their knees yesterday in consequence of the absence of the President from the city. GOV. FAIRCHILD, of Wisconsin, has received a private letter from Lord Monk, Governor General of Canada, in response to a letter from him appealing for lenient treatment to Captain Lynch, of Wisconsin, now under sentence of death in Canada as a Fenian leader. From the tenor of this letter, without violating any confidence, it may be stated that there is every inclination on the part of the Canadian Government to take a merciful view of the case.

The advertisement of the Globe Express Company will be found in our columns this morning. This concern has a plenty of ready capital, and is making liberal advances for cotton, etc., in the Southern States. The agent here is Mr. McClellent T. He enjoys a large degree of popularity as an Express man in Washington and Baltimore.

AMID what strange surroundings is American journalism sometimes pursued. The editor is metropolitan, but he is a border man well. He writes an article on the state of the Union, and kills a bear or traps a wolf in the same half day. He shoots straight and he talks direct. He is easy at times, and out at the elbows, but he is well shot with through-paased English. He strings adjectives one before another and drives tandem. He keeps an eagle and snags a dog. His doctrine is, where you can run a plough you ought to run a press, and he tries it and does it.—B. F. Taylor.

THE NEW MASONIC TEMPLE.

LAYING OF THE CORNER-STONE.

AN IMPOSING DISPLAY.

TEN THOUSAND MASON IN THE PROCESSION.

(Special Correspondence of the Republican.)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—The grand Masonic demonstration which took place here to-day, for the purpose of laying the corner-stone of the new Masonic temple on North Charles street, was one of the most imposing scenes witnessed in this city, and probably has never been surpassed in this country. The procession was composed of about one thousand Knights Templar and over eight thousand free and accepted Masons from all parts of the country. The temple were dressed in their uniform with swords, and the other dressed in black suits, silk hats, and white gloves. Large numbers of Masons from Richmond, Norfolk, Philadelphia, New York, and other cities, arrived here on Monday night and early this morning. Columbus and Washington Commanderies—The Knights Templar, headed by the Marine Band and Heald's American Band, reached here about seven o'clock this morning, and were received by the Commanderies of this city.

President JOHNSON, accompanied by Colonel ROBERT JOHNSON, his private secretary, both of whom were Masons, arrived here about 8 o'clock this morning, and were met at the depot by Gov. SWANN, with whom they breakfasted at the residence of the Governor.

As early as eight o'clock the different lodges directed their steps to the different places of meeting, and by the hour of ten o'clock the streets through which the procession was to pass were packed with persons eager to look upon the most mysterious and benevolent of all organizations.

The various bodies of Masons assembled as follows: Subordinate Lodges at the Maryland Institution, Chapters at Masonic Temple, St. Paul street. Commanderies at Holliday Street Theatre. Grand Lodges at Concordia Hall.

The procession, headed by the Marine Band and Heald's American Band, marched in the following order: Band of Music. Junior Lodges in front, as follows: Baltimore City Lodge, No. 125. Tyler, with Drawn Sword. Entered Apprentice. Two and two. Fellow Craft. Two and two. Master Masons. Two and two.

Treasurer and Secretary. Junior and Senior Warden. Junior Deacon. W. Master. Jewel and Blue Rod. The remaining Subordinate Lodges formed in the same order, and took rank according to juniority.
